DOORKEEPERSHIP CONTEST WARMING.

The Georgia Delegation Crowding in-Carlisle to be Nominated for the Speakership, Etc.

WASHINGTON, December 2 .- [Special.]-Washington has about received its congressional quota, and the usual large army of visitors, office seekers and politicians are throng-ing the streets and crowding the hotels.

The talk tonight is about the president's

The talk tonight is about the president's message. Your correspondent was informed by Hon. John D. Stewart, the member from the Atlanta district, who has been here for some days, that it was regarded as certain that the greater part of the message would be in regard to the tariff. Mr. Cleveland will insist upon a material reduction of the duty upon all the principal menssities of life and will less. the principal necessities of life, and will also advocate a reduction of the internal revenue. He will not advise the abolition of the he will lot advise tax, however, upon whisky and tobacco. This information was obtained by the congressman from a well known gentleman, who has been favored with a glance at the forthcoming message. It is regarded as authentic, and is the talk of the hotels tonight.

The race for doorkeeper grows warmer every day. Alex. W. Harris, a new candidate, a native Georgian, and a resident of Alabama now, will enter the race in case Captain Don-elson cannot be elected. Donelson's chances elson cannot be elected. Donelson's chances received a boom today, by his paying up all the money claimed by his enemies to be due the government. He and Hurt, of Mississippi, will run an exciting race, but the indications point to Donelson's election. He is using the persecution cry for all it is worth, and the fact that the opposition to him comes from men who have been disappointed in obtaining office, causes members to be wary in believing everything said aginst him. It is said that Brecken-ridge, of Arkansas, will make a bitter speech ainst him to-morrow in the caucus.

All the Georgia members are here save Barnes and Clements, who are expected to-merrow. The Georgia delegation will support elson for doorkeeper, Clark for clerk, and as a matter of course, are all for Carlisle. The caucus to-morrow will doubtless nominate these gentlemen for their respective offices. н. н. Р.

Senators Meet and Discuss the Swearing In of Turpie and Faulkner. WASHINGTON, December 2.- A caucus of eratic senators was held today, to which an informal report of the caucus committee was submitted respecting the admission of Sen-ators Turpie, of Indiana, and Faulkner, of West Virginia. The matter was discussed at considerable length, but as several members of sketched, and further discussion of the subject which hour the caucus adjourned. The caucus republicans propose to pursue, and the com-mittee will in the meantime a tempt to see if anything can be learned on the subject. Memdilatory proceedings are resorted to. It is evident that the members of both parties are studying the rules and precedents closely with a view to meeting any attempt by their op-ponents to secure an advantage, but without knowing exactly as yet what they are to guard against. The absentees today were Senators George, Hearst, Blodgett, Hampton, Gibson, Colquitt and Saulsbury. Two or three of the number, however, are already in Washington.

Scenetary Fairchild has completed the preparation of his annual report to congress, and the final pages of it vere placed in the printer's hands today. He has been engaged on this work almost exclusively for a month past, and the business of the treasury department during that time has been ably conducted by Assistant Secretary Thompson. The report is all in the secretary's own handwriting, and gives his views in regard to the surplus and tariff question at considerable length. It will be made public immediately after its presentation to congress next Wednesday afternoon.

It abolishes forfeiture of lands to the state for near the state for the state of non-payment of taxes, and provides that delin-quent taxes shall be collected by the sheriff through the usual process of levy and sale, as under executions

The senate took a recess until next Tuesday night, in order to allow senators who are lawyies to be at their respective county seats on sale day, next Monday, but they will all draw their per diem of $5, all the same.

In the house, the bill to establish a home for disabled confederate soldiers and sailors now residing in the state, passed its third reading, and was sent to the senate. It provides that each county shall be entitled to as many inmates in the home as it has representatives in the lower branch of the general assembly, and in case a county fails to furnish the number to which it is entitled, the vacancies may be filled from other counties. The buildings and grounds are to cost not less than fifteen thousand dollars, and are to be donated by the county in which the home is to be located. The location of the home is left to the discretion of the board of directors; an annual appropriation of $18,000 is made to defray the expenses of the home. Those who shall accept the benefit of the home will be precluded from the becefits of any pension bill which may be passed by legislature.

THEIR FIRST REPORT.

The Interstate Commerce Commissioners Make a Few Suggestions.

Washington, December 2.—The first annual report of the interstate commerce commission has been laid before the secretary of the interior for transmission to congress. It is a printed document of forty-three pages, exclusive of tabular appendices. The commission, has as yet, no statistics of its own collection to lay before the public, but adopting those of the manual generally accepted as reliable, it states the total railroad mileage at the close of 1886 at 133,606 miles and estimates that 4,380 miles have since been added, making 137,986 miles, divided among 1,200 railroads, operated by 5 0 corporations, which are subject to the provisions of the act creating the commission.

clerical force may be formed when it is known that, as near as can now be estimated, 110,000 books, papers and documents, showing rates, fares and charges for transportation and contracts, agreements or arrangements between carriers in relation to interstate traffic have been filed in the office of the commission, all of which required appropriate classification and systematic arrangement. It has been quite impossible to do more with these than to extraorded to the control of the co guite impossible to do more with these than to acknowledge their receipt, classify and index them, and put them in order for reference. The organization of a general system upon which they might most usefully be made has not been attempted, nor even any systematic investigation of their contents for the purpose of observing to what extent the provisions of the act to regulate commerce is compiled with in their organization.

bers of the democratic caucus say their party is firm in the conviction that the two senators named should be sworn in when the other new senators are, and they are as yet unaware of any purpose on the part of the republicans to prevent it.

It cannot be learned that the republicans have considered the subject except as individuals, and it is certain that no line of action has been mapped out. The usual course of procedure is to swear in new senators, two at a time, in the order in which their names stand on the alphabetical list. The two parties are exactly equal in strength at the start, but with the administration of the oath to the first senator on the list—Aldrich—the republicans will have a majority, and can, of course, control the current of events, if no dilatory proceedings are resorted to. It is evident that the members of both parties are different to the particular of the particular of the passenger fares, especially in the abolition of the passenger fares, especially in the north west section of the year has been exceptionally dent that the members of both parties are first the administration of the passenger fares, especially in the abolition of the passenger fares, especially in charge made for mileage flect was to care in many quarters. The act to require that course in many quarte charge made for mileage fickets in the north west section of the country, where they are perhaps most employed.

Frefsch traffic for the year has been exceptionally large in volume and is believed to have been, in no small degree, stimulated by growing confidence that days of relates and special rates were encod, and that open rates on an equal basis were now offered to all comers. The reflex action of this development of confidence among business men has been highly favorable to roads. In some localities the passage of the act was made the occasion on the part of dissatisfied and short-sighted railroad managers for new exactions, through the direct raising of rates by change in classification and otherwise. Manifestation of the spirit which induced such action is now but seldom observed, and the wrongs resulting from it have in general been corrected. In regard to the fourth section, the commission reprats in this place its opinion that, however serious may have been the results in some cases, the general effect has been beneficial. Changes in classification made alace the act took effect have been in the direction of greater uniformity, and have also in general, it is believed, been concessions to business interests.

The tendancy of its rates has been downward, and they have seldom been permanently advanced, except when excessive competition had reduced them to points at which they could not well be maintained. No destructive rate wars have occurred, but increased stability in rates has tended in the direction of stability in general business. There is still, however, great mischlef resulting from frequent changes in freight rates on the part of some com; anies, changes that, in some cases, it is difficut to suggest an excuse for.

The general results of the law have been in important ways, favorably to both roads and the public, while the comparatively few complaints that have been heard of its results, are either made with an important ways, favorably to both roads and the public, while the commission of r roads, operated by 5 0 corporations, which are subject to the provisions of the act creating the commission.

The commission, after hearing all the arguments advanced by those who appeared for the express companies, is of opinion that the express business, so far as it is done by railroad companies themselves, whether directly, and by their mauaging officers, or indirectly, and through nominal corporations created for the purpose, is within the act, and that such companies are under obligation to see that tariffs are filed and that the rules of fairness and equality which the act prescribes are observed. Whether express companies, which are independent of railroads, are within the contemplation of the act is more doubtful.

The commission is of the opinion that the question is one which congress ought to put beyond the question, by either expressly and by designation, including express companies, or by excluding them. These observations also apply to miscellaneous corporations engaged in the transportation of oil, live stock, furnishing extra accommodations to passengers, etc.

Reviewing railway operations during the period which has elapsed since the act took effect, the commission feels warranted in saying that while less has been done in the direction of bringing freight tariffs into conformity with the general rule prescribed by the fourth section, than some persons, perhaps, expected, there has, nevertheless, been a 'gratifying advance in that direction, and there is every reason to believe that this will continue. That substantial benefits will flow from making the rule as general as shall be found practicable cannot be doubted; and even when the circunistances and conditions of the long and short haul traffic are dissimilar, the desirability of avoiding any considerable desparity in charges is great and obvious. So far, therefore, and so fast as business prudence and a proper regard to the interests of communities, which would be disturbed and injured by precipitate changes will admit of its being done, should make their rates on these two crasses of traffic more obviously just and more pro-portional than they have hitherto been or now

A Witners Speaks Too Quickly—Harper's Denial of Being in the Wheat Deal —Uther Facts in the Case.

CINCINNATI, December 2.—The Harper trial opened with the usual crowd of spectators and the groups of attorneys and reporters about the tables. Mr. Schofield, of the First National bank of New York, explained the acaccounts of his bank with the Fidelity, stating, among other things, that the tional bank of New York; explained the acaccounts of his bank with the Fidelity, stating, among other things, that the Fidelity's general account showed a deficit of $500,000, while this special account showed a difficit of $500,000. But he answered to the count that it was an agreement that the special account was not to be drawn upon. Harper showed more than the usual feeling during this witness' testimony, and shook his head vehemently as he made a suggestion to his counsel. Bank Examiner Powell, who was the government's agent in closing the doors of the Fidelity last January, told his story—how he was begged by Harper to pass examination and was then asked to telegraph to the comptroller of currency for authority to not make the examination, but he still refused. He then found a tell-tale memorandum, and checks, as cash, representing $600,000. Briggs Swift, president, said he never knew of them until then. Harper, when asked for an explanation, shrugged his shoulders and walked away in silence. Discount Clerk Powell showed that discounts to the amount of $142,000 were made between January and June, but most of them remained until collected.

The defense drew from the witness in spite of the efforts of government counsel to prevent it, a statement that W. H. Chattield, one of the directors of the bank, was the one in whose name the discounts appeared as late as June 13th. Witness made comical efforts to withdraw his hasty answer by clapping his hand to his mouth, but the story was beyond recall.

W. A. Lucius, general bookkeeper, testified to a letter of advice from a party who had no funds in the bank. Harper took that letter and draft, and it next appeared in Harper's account with his indorsement.

Several other witnesses were examined, including the bookkeeper of Fidelity National bank; C. J. Kershaw, Chicago broker, and Briggs Swift, president of the Fidelity bank. The latter was asked if he knew who was engaged in the wheat deal.

"I did not," was his blunt answer. He then went en to say that he asked Harper in January last, if he was in the wheat deal, and Harper said he had not a dollar in it. "Later I sent him a letter asking him the same question, and he replied by letter saying he had no interest whatever, in the matter, and if any man said he had, he was a liar. Afterwards I often spoke to him about it and he always contradicted the rumors that he was in the deal, and when the public began to suspect the Fidelity bank, and I wanted to restore confidence, I went to the bank with Richard pect the Fidelity bank, and I wanted to restore confidence. I went to the bank with Richard Smith, of the Ga ette, who has known me for years, and together we catechised Harper on the subject. We put him on the stand and he denied it. Then Mr. Smith, upon my assurance and upon Harper's express statement, wrote an editorial denying that the Fidelity bank was mixed up in the affair. This was but a few days before the failure.

THE PAINLESS DEATH,

Which was Suffered by the Murderer, Jake

Columbia, S. C., December 2.—[Special.]—Jake Nimmons, colored, was hanged today at Mount Pleasant for the murder of Michael Platkin, a Jewish merchant. At eleven o'clock the condemned man was led to the gallows. A slight tremor shook his frame when he was taken out into the cool air. It was bitter cold, and a dreary, leaden sky overhung the scene and formed a solemn background to the tragedy. Nimmons soon recovered his composure and walked firmly to the scaffold. An incoherent sound came from his lips, but only a few words could be distinguished. "Oh, Death, Death gwine ter summon this body of mine," was all that could be made out. Suddenly Nimmons burst out into the following wild prayer: "Everlasting God and Father Give me deliverance from my trouble and take me to thee. Oh, everlasting God in heaven, save my soul and hear my prayer to thee. Send down thy spirit, oh Almighty God, and save me for my prayer."

His legs were then strapped and the black cap was put over his head. The negro manifested no sign of weakness. He faced death as if it were a refuge, and he was longing for rest. "God save me," he cried aloud as the black cap was adjusted and the light was shut out from his eyes forever. "God be with you," responded the sheriff, then at six minutes after eleven the lever was touched, the heavy iron weight fell, and the white robed, black hooded figure shot into the air and then swung almost still. A few slight convulsions, the almost still. A few slight convulsions, the chest heaved violently for about twenty sec-onds, and then all was over. Report of Trade—The Money Market Stringent—Failures, Etc.

NEW YORK, December 2.—R. G. Dun & Co's review of trade for the past week says:
Speculative booming and commercial embarrassments, anxieties abroad, and uncertainties connected with the meeting of congress, have made up the week. In nearly all specialty markets there is fairlous excitement. Corners abound and artificial advances are foxed by powerful cliques and aided by an abundance of money. But paires check legitimate business; industries are hesitating and the money stringency of many points results in slow collections and some important failures. The liquidation of Brown & Kingman, one of the largest dry goods houses, whose sales were $12,000,000 a year. flustrates the pressure which has prevailed in the commercial money market, even while funds for speculative uses were abundant. The pressure does not abate. If at some points markets are easier, reports more commonly indicate continued or increased stringency. This pressure at many points, with a great abundance of funds in speculative uses, confirms the estimates 'published monital ago of the treasury's policy. TEACHING TELEGRAPHY. The Uncasiness Felt by Elevated Railroad

New York, December 2.—For the past ten years the salaries of telegraph operators on elevated railroads in this city have remained unchanged, and the men had begun to believe themselves—secure—in their positions for life. Some—time—ago—they were—rendered—uneasy, however, by a notice from the superintendent that every operator would be required to instruct one or more "students" during dull hours. This week they were told that the "students" are to be porters and gatemen at stations, who receive about a dollar a day less than the operators. The latter say that they are educating men who will be used to force them to accept lower wages, but they do not venture to refuse teaching the "students," as they would undoubtedly be discharged and their places filled by operators out of employment. Besides, their work on the circuated roads has, in a measure, unfitted them for duty elsewhere. The matter has not yet been officially brought to the attention of the Telegraphers brotherhood, and it is not yet known what action, if any, will be taken by the operators.

THE CUTTING CASE AGAIN.

ome Suggestions from the United States Bearing on It. CITY OF MEXICO, via Galveston, December In government circles there is no apprehen-sion of difficulties with the United States over sion of difficulties with the United States over the revival of the Cutting case. The United States government made its demand on the Mexican government several weeks ago in a friendly manner, suggesting, in order to avoid future entanglements and the rupturing of good relations at present existing between the two countries, that Chihuahua and other states of this graphile maintaining the dectrine of two countries, that Chihuahua and other states of this republic maintaining the doctrine of extra territorial jurisdiction should repeal the law as being in conflict with the established principle of international law. Indemnity in the Cutting case was also suggested without any specific sum being mentioned. The question is simply one devoid of personal considerations. Cutting is said to be regarded by the United States government as having been deprived of certain rights, while Mexico holds that he was properly held for his crime and justly punished. But Mexico shows no disposition to avoid friendly discussion of the point of international law involved.

GREVY's MESSAGE.

So long as I had only to contend with the difficulties that have accumulated in my pash—the attacks of the press, the abstention of men whom the public voice called to my side, and the increasing impossibility to form a ministry—I struggled on and remained where duty bade me; but at the moment when public opinion, better informed, marked a change which gave me hope of 6 m ng a gow roment, the senate and chamber of deputies voiced a double resolution, which, under the form of an adjournment to a fixed hour to await the president's promised message, is tantamount to su monizing the president to resign. It would be my duty and right to resist, but under the circumstances, in which we are placed, a conflict between the executive, and parliament, might entail consequences, which restrain me. Wisdom and patriotism command me to yield.

I leave to those who assume it the responsibility for such precedent, and for events that may ensue. I relinquish, without reget, but not without sadness the dignity to which I have twice been raised without solicitation, and in the exercising of which I feel confident I have done my duty. To this I call France to willness.

France will say that for nine years my govern—feel confident I have done my duty. To this I call France to witness.

France will say that for nine years my government has secured to the country pea e, order and diberty; has made France respected throughout the world; has worked untiringly to raise her and in the midst of an arned Europe leaves her in a condition to defend her honor and rights. Further, that it has been able to keep the republic in a wise internal course, marked out by the interests and wishes of the country. France will say that in return for this, I have been removed from the post where her confidence placed me. In leaving political life, form but one wish. It is that the republic may not be struck blows aimed at myself, but that it may issue triumphant from the danger it is made to incur. I place on the bureau of the chamber of deputies my resignation of the functions of president of the French republic.

HOW IT WAS RECEIVED.

HOW IT WAS RECEIVED.

The deputies received the message with profound silence. M. Flouquet read a letter from the president of the senate, summoning a congress of the two chambers at Versailles tomorrow for the purpose of electing a new president. The sitting then closed and cries of "Vive La Republique." A number of members of the two chambers held a session in the Palais Bourbon this afternoon for the purpose of balloting for president preparatory to election by the congress at Versailles tomorrow. The first ballot opened at 3:30 p. m. and closed at 4:30. The result was: Flouquet 101 votes, DeFreycinet 94, Brisson 56, Sadi-Carnot 49, Ferry 19, Taillieres 3, Grevy 2. Another ballot was then taken.

In the second ballot 338 senators and deputies voted, the result being: DeFreycinet 190, Brisson 84, Sadi-Carnot 27, Flouquet 26, Ferry 11. Only members of the republican group took part in the ballot.

At 4:30 p. m. groups of people had begun to assemble in front of the Palais Bourbon. Louise Michel attempted to force an entrance into the building, and was again placed under arrest. Camelinot and Duquercy, extremest deputies, with Earnest Roche of the Intransigeant, tried to harangue a crowd in front of the Palais Bourbon, but were prevented by the police. Afterwards they proceeded to the Hotel de Ville, followed by a mob. Guards dispersed the crowd, but permitted the two deputies to enter. The municipal council was then discussing a proposal to proceed to the Palais Bourbon tomorrow to demand that the chambers save the republic. Camelinot obtained a fervent hearing. The municipal council agreed, by vote of 54 to 18, to ask an audience with the chamber of deputies.

There was much less excitement in the city tonight than the previous night. Knots of curious people collected from time to time, but were easily dispersed. A few persons received slight injuries in the scuffles with the police. Louise and Michel was forcibly removed from the entrance of the Palais Bourbon and was liberated. Deputy Basly was arrested. Senators, moderate deputies generally abstained from taking part in today's test balloting. The plenary meeting to be held at Versailles tomorrow morning will afford a better indication of the final result.

Some serious rioting occurred in the Place de LaConcorde last evening. A mounted guard charged the crowd, and several revolver shots were fired at the police. Later, they were reinforced with infantry and a fresh charge was made, when sixty persons were injured. A socialist meeting was held in Salle Favie last evening. Violent speeches were made and the crowd shouted: "A bas Ferry," "Vive Boulanger," etc.

BETTING ON THE RESULT.

Heavy sums will probably be spent to get their candidate elected. During a charge on the Port de la Concordie, a guard unsheathed his sword. He was assailed with a volley of paving stones which were torn up in the twinking of an eye, and his bridle was seized, and the man beat him with a loaded stick. A reporter, resembling Wilson, had a narrow escape from being thrown into the Seine. A body of police surrounded him and escorted him to a place of safety. A feature of the situation is the large number of betting agencies started in the streets near the chamber, their business being as active as on the race course.

M. Grevy was not affected himself by the day's events, but members of his family were terrified by the shouts of the populace, and urged him not to delay his resignation. Mr. Grevy has gone to his home, at Mont Sous Yandry. He left Paris on the seven o'clock express train.

ing of the municipal council today on the action of the prefect of the Seine, where at one of the government, list the underground passage leading from the Hotel de ville to the police barracks cleared and gave the keys to a colonel of the republican guard. The prefect explained that government was determined to ensure the salety of the public.

Finally an order of the day was adopted calling on the prefect to deliver the keys to the syndic of the council and take no further protective measures. Council appainted a delegation, consisting of Endet, Stisind, Goulee and Roche, to concert measures with the radicals for the protection of the republic against the dangers which, they believe, would menace it if Ferry should be elected. Revolutionary parties and the press are sparing no efforts to incite the mob to violence. Paul De Roulede took no part in today's doings. M. Basly, who was arrested today, will be speedily liberated.

The tricolor on the Elysee was hauled down as soon as the message of resignation had been read in parliament.

In the lobby of chambers, financiers interested in Panama and Suez canal shares, made strennous efforts to ensure election of De Freycinet or Ferry, giving preference to Ferry, because it is thought he would more likely be firm against possible opposition to America to the loan guaranteed by France, and might also be expected to patrantze lottery loans. In any case, it is thought Ferry would eagerly protect French interests in the Panama canal, while Freycinet's feelings in the matter would be more platonic. M. Roavier expressed himself last evening, that if Ferry was elected president, it would be his duty to see him safely housed in the Elysee palace. He was confident that he would be able to do it, although it would be no easy task

Paris, December 3,—Among the curions rumors current is one to the effect that Dr. Freycinet a year ago secretly entered the Roman Catholic church with view to his accession to the presidency.

The theaters were almost deserted last night. Hotels patronized by foreigners are rapidly being emptied. There were large withdrawals of bank deposits yesterday. Gaveuie, Lemorine and Le Bastard supported Grevy in the senate, and Gillet, Guilot and Demapy supported him in the chamber of deputies. Those who had advised the president not to resign, voted against hlm. The Count de Paris instructed members on the right to vote for General Saussier before he knew that Saussier had retired from the contest. He has not sent fresh instructions.

The lord may er took his seat on the bench in the court of assizes today and kept it until the commission was read. He then made a formal protest against the omission of his name and withdrew from court. Mr. Sexton, high sheriff, accompanied him in his with-

After leaving court Mr. Sullivan was conveyed in a cab to Richmond prison: Immense crowds were gathered in the streets and the lord mayor was cheered along he whole route. There was a number of coufficts between the police and people.

Timothy Harrington, M. P., for the Harbor division of Dublin, was arrested today in this city. He is a brother of Edward Harrington, M. P., who was arrested at Tralee, county Kerry, yesterday. The Harrington brothers are both charged with publishing reports of meetings of suppressed branches of the league in their paper at Tralee, and they will be tried in that town.

The arrest of Timothy Harrington is regarded, in nationalist circles, as an attempt to cripple the league, he being principal director since the arrest of Mr. O'Brien and the departure of Mr. Dillon on a tour of Scotland and England. Mr. Harrington, however, is parture of Mr. Dillon on a tour of Scotland and England. Mr. Harrington, however, is able to prove that for the last five years he has had no connection with the Kerry Sentinel, a trade paper which published the proceedings of suppressed branches of the league. Mr. Harrington was met by an immense crowd on his arrival at Tralee tonight. There was a collision between the crowd and the police, and the latter charged the crowd and used their batons freely, injuring many persons. Mr. Harrington was bailed. It is rumored that Mr. Healey will be arrested.

Those having in charge the health of the city were stirred up yesterday, and they have been trying to keep it quiet. A leper, with a highly developed stage of the dreadful disease, reported at the police barracks, and requested to be furnished with a permit to the city hospital A HORRIBLE SIGHT.

But the nature of his sickness was not suspected by the chief of police. Dr. Duncan, superintendent of the hospital, was sent for, and at once pronounced him a leper, and notified the mayor. A GENUINE CASE OF LEPROSY.

Dr. Duncan is of the opinion that it would be prudent to get the man out of the city, and it would be also better to return him to his own home, where his relatives might care for him. cared for by the charity of the public hospitals.

He is the first leper remembered to have been in this city. Under Dr. Duncan's advice, he was shipped by the mayor, via the Savannah and Charleston railroad, to Grahamville. J. H. Ferguson.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga.. December 2.—[Special.]—The Courant has news from Taylorsville of a determined poisoning case. Last Saturday morning, Amanda Rowland went to the residence of J. H. Ferguson, near Taylorsville, and started to do her week's washing, using water from Mr. Ferguson's well. Mr. F. denied her this privilege as the well was nearly dry and no water could be spared. Amanda became insulting, hurling epithets at Mr. Ferguson. She left swearing vengeance, saying that she would soon walk over Ferguson's grave. Nothing was thought of her threats until Mrs. Ferguson, her eldest daughter, and Mr. Warren Gaston, who happened to be visiting there suddenly became very ill. A physician was called in who instantly stated that they had been posoned with strychnine. The bucket of water on the rear portico looked pecullar and as the three sick ones were the only persons that had partaken of it. Upon investigation tracks corresponding to a woman's shoe were found near the bucket and Amanda was at once suspicioned as doing the hellish deed. She was carried before Justice Colbert where sufficient evidence was adduced as to warrant her removal to the county jail to await a hearing before Judge Fain. The woman is only twenty-one years of age, married and has three children.

The Teachers and the Children in Great

Macon, Ga., December 2.—[Special.]—Arbor Day seems to be in lard luck. Last year it rained all day, and this year it tried to freeze. A number of trees were planted at the East Macon school. The planting was directed by Messrs. Small and Urquhart. Great interest was manifested in the proceedings by the large crowd present. At the Vineville school the planting was lively and pleasurable. In addition to setting out the trees, the ground in front of the school house was plowed up and rye sowed. A splendid carriage drive is now being constructed around the building, leading from one gate to the other. Evergreens and other variety of trees were planted, and Messrs. Harris, Wimbish, Earnest, Hardeman, Lamar, Holt and other gentlemen sent wagon loads of fertilizers to use in the planting. The day was rendered memorable and highly pleasant by the ladies serving an elegant lunch to the children and others present. After the trees were planted the repast was quite a surprise, and was heartily enjoyed. The scene presented at Gilesville this morning was also animating, and here a good supply of trees was planted. The teachers, scholars and visitors were in a state of merriment over the planting.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. There were stored in it about eight hundred bushels of peas, a bale and a half of cotton and other things of less value. The Many Inquiries Which Captain Harrison Receives-Where the Men Fought and in What Command.

The appliactions for annuities under the act of the last general assembly to disabled sol-diers are pouring in thick and fast, and Cap-tain W. H. Harrison, the vigorous and versatile secretary of the executive department, is kept under full pressure all day long to keep up. Every letter contains a question or two, and the neglect to comply with the form set out entails upon the department no small degree of trouble.

When an application comes in reciting that Private Jones, of the 361st Georgia, was injured "in the spinal vertebrate of the sinoid deltoid muscle," the secretaries will overhaul their knowledge of medical terms, and at last venture to ask, "where was he shot."

Many interesting cases present themselves, forming a study for the philosophical members of the department.

Silas Doby, of Butts county, while a member of Company I, 14th Georgia, in 1862, was engaged in splitting wood. The wedge bounced out, and striking Doby in the right eye, burst the ball and rendered him totally blind in that While there is allowance for a disabled arm

MEETING POSTPONED.

Response to a Call for a Colored Mass Meeting Less Than a Dozen Turn Out.

Meeting Less Than a Dozen Turn Out.

The announcement that there would be a mass meeting of colored voters last night in the fifth ward was made several days ago. The meeting was to begin at 7:30 o'clook, and it was to be open to all colored voters, regardless of their party athiliations.

Evidently the colored men of Atlanta have had a surfeit of meetings, for they failed to respond to the call. When a reporter of The Constitution entered the building in which the meeting was advertised to be held he found the hall in darkness, and about seven colored men huddled together in one of the antercoms. There was some misunderstanding about the place of meeting, and the door of the hall was looked. After waiting half an hour for reinforcements, and none appearing, the few men present decided to abandon the meeting and hold another next Monday night in the Miles hall, opposite the plow factory.

Very little interest was shown in the meeting, and none of those present could give much in formation about its objects.

Are you weak and weary, overworked and tired? Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine to purify your blood and give you strength.

Always Sure of Enough.

From the Hamilton, Ga., Journal.

Taken all in all we doubt if there is in the Taken all in all we doubt if there is in the state an agricultural county superior to Harris, That our people are generally prosperous we cannot claim, but their want of prosperous we cannot claim, but their want of prosperity is attributable to any fault of soil or climate nobody dares assert. Seasons are frequently not as we would have them, but in a residence here covering a decade the writer has every season chronicled some remarkably good crops. The mountains that run through the county nearly parallel to each other, dividing the county into two nearly equal parts, are the guardians of our general prosperity and insure for our people renumerative crops in one place or another that are sure to bring the general average up to the same figure. Many counties in the state have such a sameness of soil that a failure on one farm is a failure on all, but it is not so in Harris. Here there is hardly one farm that is a type of any other and the result is that, supropitious seasons for some are sure to be propitious for others, so that if we can never all get very rich we are just as certain that we will never—all fail at once.

An Old Book.

An Old Book.

From the Perry, Ga., Journal.

Colonel Arthur McCauley, who lives about two and a half miles north of Perry, informs us that he has in his possession a book, "History of the New Testament," by Jeremy Taylor, published 213 years ago, in 1674. He also has two almanacs printed in 1768 and 1778. These books were purchased by Colonel McBauley's father, at a sale of old books in Charleston, S. C., several years before the late war. From the Perry, Ga., Journal.

A Big Radish Farm.

From the Marshallville, Ga., Times.

Thirty acres are being planted in radishes and other vegetables near Marshallville. They will be protected from cold when necessary. The same ground will be used for tomatoes in the early spring for shipping and canning purposes, as Mr. Van Tassel proposes to add a canning factory to his evaporating establishment, and will have thirty acres in tomatoes for his own use, Things begin to look boomy.

Consumption, Wasting Diseases And General Debility. Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites the one supplying strength and feeth, the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and entire system. But in Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by this. Scott's Emulsion is perfectly relatable and is easily digested by those who cannot tolerate plain Cod Liver Oil.

An Interesting Decision. A very interesting decision has been ren ered in the United States circuit court at leston by Judge Colt. The case was an etion brought by the attorney-general of seesed in May, 1885, on the corporate company doing business in that state, and to enjoin the defendant from further exe-ration of its business until the tax was paid. The Western Union based its defense on the ground that the tax was illegal.

First, because of its operation and effect apon a franchise granted by the United tates and used for its benefit; second, because it is a tax upon inter-state or foreign commerce; and third, because it is in effect vied upon real estate located in another

Judge Colt finds: "First, that there is othing in the act of congress granting ivileges to telegraph companies which imrs the right of a state to tax the property franchise of a corporation in the manner exercised by the state of Massachusetts. Regarding the second point, the court finds that the supreme court of the United States has decided that a state statute imposing a specific tax on each message sent beyond the state was void so far as it was a tax on interstate business. In the present case, however, the tax is imposed upon the Colt can find no case which contains the view taken by the defendant. On the last point the court finds that it is a question of legislative discretion, and no valid ground has been suggested upon which this court for this reason has a right to declare a tax so levied invalid in whole or in part.

Southern Lumber.

The Northwestern Lumberman calls attention to the fact that during the past few months there have been numerous and heavy investments in southern timber land. The New Orleans Times-Democrat, referring to this statement, says that the larger share of attention has been directed to the long leaf pine lands of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. Investments have been made in these lands by Michigan and Chicago men.

The purchases of these large tracts have not been made for speculative purposes, but for the development of southern lumber in terests. The supply of the principal southern woods is not equal to the demand, and it is the purpose of the investors to increase

It is said that the Rev. Dr. Parker, of hold Hengland, is full of fight. Perhaps it

It's English, You Know.

After the death of the great preacher Henry Ward Beecher, the devoted congre gation of Plymouth church determined that a grand eulogy should be delivered on their beloved pastor, and with this in view the sorrowing members begun to cast their eyes over the world to find a suitable personage to sing the praise of the dead minister.

Such a man was found in the Rev. Joseph Parker, of England, a reverend lecturer of distinction in the mother country, who had short while before signed a contract with Major Pond, of New York, to make a lec turing tour through this country. The two missions fitted exactly, and when the Rev. Joseph Parker arrived at New York he found that his manager had done good work In the way of judicious advertising. Extensive arrangements had been made for the memorial service at Plymouth church, and so great was the demand to hear the eulogy of the distinguished foreigner on the celebrated preacher and scholar, that the seats in the great tabernacle were sold at high prices, and the capacity of the auditorlum proved inadequate to accommodate the great crowd that sought admission.

But the eulogy was delivered and everybody was satisfied. When the Rev. Joseph Parker left Brooklyn on his lecturing tour he carried with him the good will of the whole people and the hearty indorsement of the press and public of the city, which had so feelingly honored the memory of him who, but a short while before, was the greatest in their midst,

But things have changed now, and Brooklyn wrath is at fever heat. It is said that should the Rev. Joseph Parker drift back to that vicinity he would find the place too hot to hold him. Plymouth church is indigmant in the highest degree, and both press and public, which only a few weeks ago united in lauding in the most glowing terms the virtues of the English minister, are now engaged in denouncing him in the bitterest manner possible. Indeed, Brooklyn is outraged, and the Rev. Joseph Parker is the cause of all the disturbance. The trouble grows out of the development of the fact that the Rev. Joseph's silvery eloquence and golden words of praise for the late pastor of Plymouth church, was not a labor of love, as everybody supposed. It turns out that every word of the eulogy was prompted by th hope of mercenary gain, and is marred by the metallic ring of the almighty dollar. The Rev. Joseph has sent in his bill and it amounts to $700. He states that $500 of this is to cover expenses, and the other $200 is his charge for the address. The expense account was satisfactory, but it is the $200 that rankles in the heart of the average Brooklyn citizen. To think that their distinguished dead was eulogized at so much a word, and they sat calmly by and listened to. the mercenary words, and more, that they applauded and praised the speaker, is too much for the good people of Brooklyn. Major Pond says: "All this talk about timent is rhetorical rubbish; that Dr. Parker's eulogy was purely a business mat ter and as such he ought to be paid for it."

The Rev. Joseph's American trip was evidently in pursuit of sordid gold. Before the recent tumble over the Beecher eulogy, he wrote to the editor of the Chicago Herald that he would immediately, on his return to England, seek an Interview with Mr. Gladstone on American matters. This he would offer to only three American dailies, one of which was the Herald, the answer of which he solicited to his proposition. "But," concludes the Rev. Joseph, "there is no need for an answer unless you have an offer

CONGRESSMAN CARLISLE is said to look worried. But there is nothing to worry him if he is in favor of a compromise, The Corn Crop.

According to the government crop report for November, the corn crop of the whole country will average a little less than twenty bushels an acre for 75,000,000 acres. The whole crop amounts to 1,458,-000,000 bushels. This is 186,000,000 bushels below the yield of last year. Estimating this less at forty cents a bushel, it is a loss of $74,400,000.

The government report says that the country has raised but one good corn crop since 1880, and that was the one of 1885, which amounted to 1,986,000,000 bushels. The crop of the present year, according to the figures of the department, is the smallest of this decade, except that of 1881. During the past eight years the yield has

The corn crop is the most important of all our crops. It is more valuable than the wheat crop, or the cotton crop, or the hay crop. All the corn we raise is consumed at home, and there are some thousands of bushels imported from Canada.

The St. Louis Republican, which has analyzed the figures, says that in some parts of the south the corn crop is the best raised for years, and this is very fortunate, indeed, for the south has heretofore been buying her corn from the west. Let us hope that this section will improve the record in this respect.

IN ANSWER TO A correspondent, Murat Halstead's paper, the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette, says that that worthy was born at Paddy's Run, Butler county, Ohio. It might hav followed this with the statement that this rare curiosity, the only one of its kind on exhibi tion, was captured by the democratic party in 1884, feeds on blood, and can be seen daily for the small sum of five cents-per copy.

THE NEW YORK EVENING POST has published a very ingenious argument demonstrating that the new voters will turn the tide of election in '88. By the new voters it means those who have come of age since 1884. The Post, vidently, takes it for granted that the repub icans have a corner on this business. "But," the Post says, "it remains to be seen whether this vote will be gained if the republican party renominates the man who lost New York Connecticut and Indiana in 1884."

THE AUTHORS READINGS in New York are drawing great crowds and the undertaking has proven a decided success. Among the readers re several of the most distinguished American authors, whose readings are notably from their own writings. James Russell Lowell, Geo. William Curtis, W. D. The Impeachment of Johnson. Washington Cor., Courier-Journal.

Recently two gentlemen met at the Arling. n who had not seen each other for many years, oth were in Washington during the war and for everal years afterwards. One spoke of the late Senator Grimes, whom he knew well, and he said he honored Grimes for not heeding the wild clamer and voting against the impeachment of Johnson. and voting against the impeachment of Johnson. He said that the six republicans who voted with the democrats, saved the government from revolution, that the attempt to impeach the president was an attempt on the part of the republican party to destroy the powers of the executive. In his opinion it took from that time to Cleveland to recover from the effects of that attempt. The arregant senate, he thought, by the tenure-of-office laws, had added to its power that of removal from office as well as the right to that of removal from office as well as the right to onfirm the president's appointments, and senators are reluctant to give up that power. Then he slated upon the revenge which the republican party took upon such conscientious statesmen as Grimes, Fessenden, Trumbull and others. "I was a epublican," he said, "but I could not approve the actions of my party, for Johnson had done nothing worthy of impeachment." His friend said: "I too was a republican until attempts were made by legislative action to destroy the government. And," he added, "nothing ernment. And," he added, "nothing makes me a more firm believer in an overruling Providence that the frustrations of the attempts to destroy the constitution. God gave grace to six men to brave the edium and reproaches of the party men to brave the edium and representes of the party they belonged to rather than do the thing which they conscientiously believed to be wrong. That attempt at impeachment failed, but the public mind had become so debanched that it paved the way for a bold, bad man like Zach Chandler, to steal the presidency when the people went outside the republican party for a president."

The conversation was an interesting one of rein iniscences. Why don't the papers stop their war literature and write up the republican rebellion in the halls of congress? A fair and impartial history of legislation from 1861 to 1887, would show that the democrats, when there were but a handful, stood as a hulwark against the encronchments of national legislation upon the powers conferred by the constitution upon the states and the liberties of the people. Centralization of the government was the object aimed at, and although only the south was in the minds of the revolutionists, yot if it had been accomplished it would have affected Masachusetts as well as South Carolina, and New York as well as Louisiana. I well remember hearing republicans say that the south should have no representation until after the elections, and again "we will continue to route advision to congress until the south learns that they must elect republicans, and we will continue to roject all democrats."

NEWMAN, Ga. December 2.—Editors Constitution: I cannot permit a statement made by your Newman correspondent and published in your issue of the first instant 10 go unchallenged. While I uld be ungrateful not to thank a writer of such versatility for associating my name with those of the distinguished gentlemen whom he mentions, a sense of duty compels me to demur to some of his oracular political fulminations. As a piece of pleasantry his article is exquisite, and while I do him the justice to suppose he so intended it, some of his utterances are, to say the least, indiscreet and calculated to mislead. In the first place, I aim, in no sense of the word, a candidate for congress, nor will I be, under any circumstances, at the next nor will I be, under any circumstances, at the next election. In the second place, I was not defrauded of the nomination at LaGrange by the friends of the Hon. H. R. Harris, I voluntarily withdrew my name when there remained no longer any reasonable prospect of securing a nomination. In the third place, Colonel W. T. Revil, who is, I am proud to say, my personal friend, is under no obligate pledges to support me for congress, never say, my personal mend, is under no congations or pledges to support me for congress, never has sup-ported me, and I am afraid never will. "One blast of his bugle horn were worth a thousand men," and no candidate in this district need undervalue his political influence. Colonel Revil has always acted on the assumption that I would be of more service to my countrymen at home than in congress and to my countrymen at home than in congress and has repeatedly urged me to stay at home. I have taken his advice, and see no reason why I should disregard his friendly admonitions. Your correspondent again errs when he says there is no love pondent again errs when he says their in a both between me and Colonels Atkinson and Freeman They are my friends, and I would cheerfully support either of them for congress. In a word, Mr. Editor, your correspondent is evidently wet.

Respectfully, P. F. Smrn.

Another Echo From the Fourth. NEWNAN, Ga., December 2.-Editors Cor stitution: A correspondent from this place, in yesterday's CONFITUTION, in his learned discussion of fourth district politics, makes statements wide of the mark. Neither Smith, Turner, Ray, Atkinson of fourth district pointies, makes sates and the other the mark. Neither Smith, Turner, Ray, Atkinson nor Freeman are candidates for congress, nor is there any antagonish between thom. On the other hand, they are all personal and political friends, and no combination of circumstances will array them against each other. If either of these gentlemen were candidates he would receive the hearty and undivided support of all the others.

The statements that Hon. A. D. Freeman would, if a candidate, have a "divided support" from Coweta, and that he looked forwarded to the time when he could take vengence on those who did not support him in the last canvass was news to the people of Coweta. In the last canvass delegates were selected in his behalf without a dissenting voice, and no man's county ever stood ready to give him a more earnest and unanimous indorsement than Coweta will now give Freeman shou'd he ask it, and to him vengeance is the last motive to call forth action. A lofty Christian character, a warm charitable and generous soul raise him above the plane in whom such motives reign, and of all the men I know he would be the last to say "revenge is sweet."

ABOUT TOWN.

The staid and sober Public Ledger, of Philadelphia, suggests that now that Atlants has got through with her prohibition fight she may be able to find time to think about putting a club into the Southern league next year. The Public Ledger is right.

Everybody who is approached upon the subject agrees that Atlants should have a club. But advancing such a theory and putting up the necessary money are two widely different things. A good baseball club is a rather expensive luxury, though it need not be if the league is smade up of cities; of any considerable size and with the club under proper management. The history of base ball clubs teaches that those clubs which are run by one individual—one man power, as it were—are individual—one man power, as it were—are the successful and paying clubs. Nothing can work quite as much harm to a club as a board of directors, the different members of which having different ideas and working against one another. This is something that must be guarded against at the start.

Then a good manager is an absolute neces-sity. What is needed is a man with business and executive ability. A man who is simply a base ball crank makes the poorest manager in

But all this is, of course, secondary to the formation of a good, solid organization. If a few shrewd business men will get together and go ahead systematically with this, they can not only land Atlanta where she belongs-at the head of the list—but they can make

SIGNATURES BY PHOTOGRAPH. Young People Who Affix Their Likenesses to

From the New York Mail. A strong evidence of youthful vanity is the fact of pasting a miniature likeness of the writer at the bottom of a letter where the signature properly belongs. An uptown stationer has received orders for letter and note paper to be engraved a the bottom of the sheet in this manner: Yours very truly.

The square marks the place where the likeness of the writer is to go. A photographer in the same neighborhood told a reporter that he was doing a large business in miniatures. "My patrons are mostly young people," he said,

They are very particular about every little detail of the picture, and order as many as ten and twenty dozen at a time. The pictographs are about the size of an ordinary postage stamp and are gummed upon the back. Some order their pictures sinished in colors. It takes considerable time and skill to paint them satisfactorily, and they are consequently expensive; but such is the vanity of my patrons that they do not hesitate at cost."

A Curt Good-bye. From the Detroit Free Press.

In May, 1863, I being then a member of the Thirteenth Illinois cavalry, and in General Steele's command, I was captured, with three other members of the command, while foraging in the country about thirty miles from Little Rock. We were stripped of all outside clothing, spurs, hats and boots, robbed of everything of value, and forwarded to Little Rock to be confined as prisoners of war in the penitentary. The building was then entirely clear of convicts, and we were confined in the yard. I found about 250 federal prisoners in there, and had not been in the inclosure half an hour when I was informedthat a plot was on foot for a general de livery at an early day.

There was a line of confederate sentinels on the walls, and a second line at the base of the walls outside. This seemed to the confederates to assure our captivity, but, ten or twelve days previous to my arrival, our boys had begun a tunnel designed to go under the wall. They had begun at it spot about forly feet back from the wall, and the work had all been done at night. During the day blankets were thrown over the spot, an old piece of canvas elevated for au awning, and no one could suspect what was going on under the very noses of the guards. On the second night of my arrival the tunnel was finished. It came out close to an old shanty twelve feet outside the wall, and every man in the inclosure was invited to make use of it, and advised how to act when be once got outside. The night was dark and rainy, and the men began passing out at about 9 o'clock. It was midnight he fore my turn eame, and the man behind me was my tent-mate and chum. We had our own ides of what course we should take after getting out, and instead of making a bolt for the country we walked coolly off into the woods for about a mile and then climbed a tree. We were scarcely in place before a great hullabaloo at the prison warned us that the escape had been discovered. Out of 250 prisoners in the place 247 passed out. The others were too ill to go. The very last man was out when the confederates made the discovery. There was a great commotion inside of two minutes, and inside of a quir ter of an hour the country was being scoured in every direction. I may state here that only twelve of us out of that large number cluded recapture. Most of them were taken before noon next day. Before daylight the woods in which we had taken refuge were being beaten up by dogs, civilians and soldiers, and had we been in flight we should cer-tainly have been overhauled. Indeed, they recaptured numbers of prisoners within our hearing, and some of them passed under our tree on their way back to confinement. When daylight came we climbed higher and secured better shelter, and we did not descend from the tree until 10 o'clock at night. During the day many searchers passed through the woods, and had any of them lifted their eyes we must certainly have been discovered. When we got down to earth we took a half circuit to strike the Arkansas river at a point far below the town, and as we reached it, after three or four hours' hard travel, we came upon a negro cabin. The man was routed out, and as soon as he knew we were escaped prisoners he gave us a hearty meal, bundled us up a large quantity of coarse provisions and in-sisted that we make use of his boat to go down the river. He gave us the names of all the towns below, advised us to lie by during the day and saw us off with a "May de Lawd bress yer boaf an' see ye

We were eleven nights paddling down the Arkan sas, and eleven days lying by in swamps and cane-brakes. After the start we secured food only three times, and that in small quantities. It was always from the negroes, and in no case did we fear be-trayal. During those long nights we came near being recaptured a score of times, and during the days we were so harassed and annoyed by hunger, heat and insects that we were more than once inclined to give ourselves up. We reached the Mississippi and insects that we were more than once inclined to give ourselves up. We reached the Mississippi one morning just at daybreak, and the smoke of the federal gunboat, Little Rebel, was plain to be seen. We had to hide in a thicket and wait nearly three hours before she came opposite. Then we signaled and she checked her way, run out her loaded guns, and suit a beat to hall us. The officer shouted: and sent a boat to hail us, The officer shouted:

"Escaped prisoners!"

"Little Rock!"
"When did you escape?"

"Twelve days ago."

"Twelve days ago."

He was loth to believe the story. The gunboat backed in within rifie-shot, the men stood to their guns and we were ordered to wade out on a bar in the direction of the small boat. When we were out until the water was up to our necks the boat pulled slowly in and took us aboard, but it was not until we were aboard the gunboat that our story was rulip believed. The captain and others had read of the sacape at Little Reck, and we had no trouble in identifying ourselves.

COLUMBUS, Miss., November 26 .- [Staff Cor-

It seems that a slice of old Georgia, with the houses, people and fixtures, has been bodily transperted and planted here right in the heart of Mississippi. The dove for the old state has not died out yet, but on the contrary, has perhaps grown stronger, and all ideas of has perhaps grown stronger, and all ideas of heaven and a better world that these people have are indissolubly associated with the name of Georgia and the memories and recollections

Having said this much, it is superfluous to add that the Columbus people are mighty good, elever people. The town resembles greatly the city of Athens on the Oconec, the houses are like the old homes there, the streets are broad and sometimes winding, and the in-fluential idea that controlled the people in selecting their homes was the same spirit that moved the Athenians to place their houses so as to have plenty of room. The society of Co-lumbus is said to be the best in the state, the reason being that the people have suffered fewer of the troubles and ruptures that followed the war; it has in a great measure taken the place in Mississippi that Natchez held before the war, and the grand civilization of ante bellum days remains more perfectly intact here than anywhere else that I know. On the banks of the Tombigbee, Columbus is pretty much the same that it was twenty-five years ago. True, it has increased a little in population and considerable in business, but in every essential feature the city is the same. It would be a great calamity for Columbus to get sick with a fever like that which excited Birningham for awhile and then laid her low, the material gain that the element of progress might give to her would be more than terbalanced by the loss of that staid respectability and cultured social condition that now characterizes the place and makes it so attractive to the stranger within its gates. Situated in the heart of one of the best agricultural regions of the state, the trade of the town is not inconsiderable, and a picturesque air is given to the streets by the multitude of white covered wagons that line the streets during the day. The completion of the Georgia Pacific road to Columbus has opened a new field for the town. For years it has maintained its respectability by reason of its lack of railroad communication with the outside world. Now, that the main line of a strong system links the town with the leading trade marts of the south, the impression is growing that erbalanced by the loss of that staid respecta of the south, the impression is growing that Columbus is on the eve of a business revolution. Some of the most prominent business men of the place, however, are of the opinion that the new road will injure the city in many respects. It is feared that it will take away many bales of cotton, and that the small places that are arringing up now all along the line many bates of cotton, and that the small places that are springing up now all along the line will eventually take away considerable trade. The trade of Columbus being almost entirely retail, the opening of every store within its own natural territory is calculated to injure it, and on these arguments is based the belief that the road will injure worse then it will benefit the place. But we more than it will benefit the place. But we have but little to do with this feature of the fississippi town. Every place, no matter what its size may be,

Every place, no matter what its size may be, has some object or institution that constitutes the show-place or thing of the town, about which lingers the affections of the people, and to which they point the stranger with pride. With us in Georgia, Augusta has its canal, Savannah its Bonaventure, Atlanta its Kimball house, Athens its university—and, so Columbus has its female college.

Nowhere else in the union is there one just like it!

Nowhere else in the union is there one just like it!

It seems strange that Mississippi, generally believed to be backward in many things, should be first and foremost in educational matters. For the boys, it has an agricultural college that is more successful than any similar institution anywhere else, more thorough, more advanced, more strongly planted in the affections of the people. With commendable justice, the state has endeavored to do for its girls what it has already performed for its boys. Here in Columbus is an institution for the practical training of girls, that has no superior and perhaps no equal anywhere in the country. Years ago there was in Columbus a female school of small proportions the practical training of girls, that has no superior and perhaps no equal anywhere in the country. Years ago there was in Columbus a female school of small proportions and operated with varying success. Located in the center of beautiful grounds, the institution was operated for the benefit of the girls of the town. Three or four years ago, the town of Columbus domated fifty thousand dollars to the institution with the proviso that the state should take hold of it, and organize and equip an institution for the practical training of the girls of the state, in the same manner as it aided and controlled the agricultural college. With the money received from Columbus together with that domated by the state, the old wooden building was replaced by an elegant brick structure capable of accommodating 350 girls. Every modern convenience was placed in the building, it is heated by steam, lit by electricity, and supplied with water and gas. Large engines in the basement supply the steam for heating purposes and the power for clevators and laundry. The rooms for recitation purposes are supplied with every convenience, and the dormitories are models of simple elegance and comfort. Tuition is free, the object of the school being to give to poor girls the training in practical arts that will enable them to earn their own living. The basis of attendance is controlled by the proportion of population and illiteracy in each county. Scholars are permitted to attend from any part of the state who are able to pay their own expenses, but 250 are given the training at actual cost. The expenses of board and clothing for a pupil during the year will not exceed $130, and the girls reduce this amount largely by doing most of their own work, for which they are paid eight cents per hour. All of the household work in the large building is performed by the pupils, save scrubbing, and the cleanliness of the house is simply wonderful. The floors are so clean that they almost look white, and the window panes are as clean as artesian water that all occasions, even on Sunday, when the pupil attends church. Economy and prudence are taught in every department, and the habits the training is 'incalculating in the minds of the coming women of the state, are simply invaluable.

An excellent education is afforded the pupil. They are taught everything that a woman ought to know, or that will add to her worth or adorn and beautify her life. Accomplishments are not overlooked, but they are made secondary to the great work of the institution.

ments are not overlooked, but they are made secondary to the great work of the institution, and such things as music, singing, etc., are taught not as an accomplishment but as a profession in order that the learner may derive a comfortable living thereby. Painting in oil, water colors, or china, etc., work in steel, brass, and bronze, such as converting a silver cup into the reponseal style, or a plain piece of tin a to a highly ornamental bread tray or waiter, are taught those who desire to learn. Wood carving and industrial designing are subjects that large classes are pursuing, and he walls are hung specimens of their taught to the practiced h patterns here for matting, of cloths, etc., the are readily accepted by the manufacturers.

Dress-making is a particular department, in charge of a practical teacher, and many dresses of the grande dames of the city are made with in these college walls, the mohey received so ing to the credit of the pupil. Crayon won'd frequently sent here from many places to be performed, and the work of enlarging photographs has grown to be a regular industry. In the mechanical departments stenography type-writing and type-setting are being pursued by a large number. The other day in the chancel of the college was the chancer of the college work with the skill and accuracy of a professional stenography pher. Type-writing machines are daily mainipulated by the girls, and the college has secured employment for many graduates who devoted themselves to that particular industry. A college paper of eight pages is gotten out here, every word and letter being set by those pupils who take this branch of training.

In short, there is hardly a vocation that woman can follow without injury to her reput attion or without shock to her modesty that is not practically taught in this institution and while she is being fitted with these weapons by which the can earn a living from the world, she at the same time is given every accomplishment that car possibly adorn and beautity the female character.

Columns could be written about this work compossibly adorn and beautify the female character.

Columns could be written about this wonderful institution. A movement was made in the last Georgia legislature to establish an institution of its kind. The state owes it to the women of the state, and if it is ever done no better model can be found anywhere to pattern after and follow than this model institution at Columbus. Presided over by Dr. Jones, graduate of the university of Virginia, and formerly a professor in the university of Mississippl, assisted by an able corps of professor male and female, the college his alread achieved a full measure of success, and is daily growing in its power to do good, and is rapidly changing the position of the women of Mississippi from one of idle dependence and suffering to that of complete independence and prosperity.

To see 250 girls pursuing an education the will fit them for the task of earning their ow living, to know that they will be obliged to earn that living, to realize that in this glarious work the state is lending a helping hand that ambile acceptance of the state of rious work the state is lending a nerval and approves all along the line, makes one feel good happy, proud of the girls, of the state, and of the people that have inaugurated this grand innovation in the work of female education.

It is questioned if there is a city in America that carries more life insurance according to its size than Atlanta. Some prefer old line insurance, while others strongly believe in the mutual assessment organizations. The mutual companies here have done a big work and almost invariably paid all death claims. This new assembly that is to be arganized at an early date, is the branch of a company that has many merits, and is a good, safe and inustworthy organization. About two hundred signatures have been secured for charter members, and they are among the leading business and professional men of this city. Most of them have been examined by Dr. Hobbs, who is the medical examiner, and everything is now ready for organiza-Incr. and everything is now ready for organiza-tion. If any one would like to investigate and come in as charter members, they should consult Mr. W. T. Wilson. 33 South Broad street, or Dr. A. G. Hobbs, over James' bank.

A CUTTING AFFRAY.

George Rice Uses a Knife Upon a Fellow-Workman.

Workman.

The cotton compress in Peters street, near the railway, was the scene yesterday of a sensational affray.

George Rice, one of the colored laborers employed at the compress, slashed a fellow-workman named Commodore Ellington.

Mr. Turner, the boss, went away during working hours. During his absence Ellington told Rice that he was shirking his work. This made the latter very mad and he began abusing Ellington. Just how it occurred the men did not know exactly, but Rice whipped out a knife and stabbed Ellington in the back several times. They he ran off at his full speed.

The wounded man's condition is thought to be serious. The stabber has not been arrested, and his whereabouts are not known.

Just as the fire department had got settled down from its first fire of yesterday the alarm sounded egain, this time calling the department to the center of Peters and Leonard streets, where a fire had been discovered in Lum Kyle's grocery store. The fire had caught from the stove and a portion of the floor had been burned before the departmen reached the scene. The loss was small.

The New Orleans Cotton Market

The New Orlean's Cotton Market.

New Orlean's, December 2.—[Special.]—Our New York friends wire us today that large blocks of cotton were thrown on the market by the longs realizing profits, and this, with stop orders, were the only apparent reason for the decline. Bradstreet's report, as telegraphed us tonight, estimate the crop at 6,480,600, which, aithough somewhat larger than the figures of the World and the bureaus, is still below popular expectation. As Liverpool and New York have been figuring on a crop conderably larger, we believe that should any decline occur on the publication of these figures, it will be only temporary, as it is universally acknowledged that six and three quarter millions will be needed to meet the requirement of the frade. Liverpool has been calculating on this basis, and therefore has not advanced as she would have done had she believed in six and one-half. In addition to this we learn in the last few days from every direction that such a large proportion, say seventy-five per cent of the crop, has been marketed, that we doult very much if even a larger estimate than Bradstreet's would have more than a temporary effect. THE CITY ELECTION.

Register Today-Some New Candidates and Today is the last day for registration for the city election.

It is necessary for everybody, who desires to vote and who has not already registered, to do so at once. The present indications point to a quiet election with but little interest, but here, as elsewhere, indications are likely to fail.

It all depends.

as elsewhere, indications are likely to fail.

It all depends.

I pen what? Mainly upon whether the prohibitionists put a ticket in the field. The leaders say there will be nothing of the kind done. Some of the rank and file say that there is a great deal of scheming being done, and that the scheming means something.

It is the general opinion that the antis will have a ticket.

There have already been announced a number of candidates from the different wards, and there are a good many others standing around waiting for an opportunity to do the dark horse act. It would be hard to guess the winning ticket.

There were some changes yesterday.

Mr. V. P. Sisson, who was announced as a candidate for alderman, says that he will not run under any circumstances.

Mr. M. M. Welch retires from the race for council from the second ward. He is a prohibitionist and retires in favor of Mr. A. B. Bostick, another probi.

Mr. J. J. Falvy and James G. Woodward are announced as candidates from the third ward.

So far as known these are all the new candidates. But there are others coming—other.

So far as known these are all the new can-didates. But there are didates. But there are others coming-wards to be heard from.

COMING TO GEORGIA. A Well Known Bostonian to Locate in Georgia. Hon. Thomas F. Brady, president of the Boston municipal council of the Irich National league, has accepted the position of superintendent of the Georgia marble quarries, in Pickens county. Before leaving Boston a magnificent banquet was tendered him by many of the most prominent Irishmen of the hub, which is prominently reported in all of the Boston journals. In its report the Boston all of the Boston journals. In its report the Boston Herald says:

The tinkling of the glasses had quieted down, and the last gurgle had died away when the musical voice of Mr. John Boyle O'Roilly was heard calling the gentlemen to order. He said it was with great regret that he was present at a party called to say good-bye to so carnest a worker and genial a companion as Thomas M. Brady. Mr. Brady had accepted a position as superintendent of one of the largest marble quarries in Georgia, or in the world, and to that southern state he was to take himself and family. Mr. O'Reilly spoke very highly of Mr. Brady's work in the Irish National league, and said that he was one of the best Irish yankees who ever went south. Amid great applause he proposed the health of Mr. Brady.

Mr. Thomas F. Brady, in responding, said that this farewell reception was much more than he expected, and he thanked the gentlemen heartily for it. He had done all he could for his country, and he was gald to see that the time for her complete emancipation was almost here. He referred to the marble quarries of Georgia as being among the richest and most productive in the world, and he could but feel glad that he was going to assist in developing such a great and growing industry.

Mr. Thomas F. Dougherty hoped that the Irish-Americans of Boston were scending an apostle to the south who would teach the state of Georgia to do what Massachusetts has done for the Irish cause. He told a number of interesting reminiscences of his work with Mr. Brady.

what Massachusetts has done for the Frish cause. He told a number of interesting reminiscences of his work with Mr. Brady.

Hon. John E. Fitzgerald, who has just arrived from Chicago, Ill., thought that Mr. Brady had rare ability coupled with rare modesty. He was going to a warmer country to live in, but he would nowhere fluid warmer hearts than those he had left behind him.

Among the other speakers were Hon. Patrick A. Collins and Rev. Dennis O'Callaghan.

He Did Not Say It. Mr. Tom Corrigan says that the statement in yesterday's Constitution, to the effect that he had a conference with Chief Connolly con-cerning the reward for the apprehension of the cerning the reward for the apprehension of the murderer of young Hightower, is a mistake. He is quoted as saying: "I went to the station-house to represent Patrolman Smith, who was being tried by the board of commissioners, and on my way up stairs was asked if I wanted to see Elbert Ware. I stepped back into the corridor and looked at him, and went immediately up to the board's room. I did not speak to the chief about it. I said nothing about a reward. I am not and never have been secretary of the young men's club and had no authority to speak for the club, nor do I know what the club will do in the premises."

Monroe Goes Wet and Will Try Another Plan.

Plat.

Monroe, Ga., December 2.—[Special.]—Two years—just a week after the election in Atlanta—the barrooms in Monroe were voted out. Without any opposition yesterday the citizens of the town, by a good majority, elected a wet council, and the bars will be brought back. The reasons for this change are two: The high advalorem tax necessary to run the town government, which is being resisted, influenced many voters; but the most important reason for the change in public sentiment was the fact that the bars were established just beyond the town limits, and were a great source of annoyance to the citizens living near them, and pald no taxes whatever to the town government. High license and restriction will be the purpose of the new council.

A Presentiment.

Columbus Enquirer: Mrs. C. H. Dudley was in the city yesterday en route to the bedside of her husband, at Seale. Mr. Dudley fell from a house in Seale during the fire yesterday morning, about 1 o'clock. At the time Mrs. Dudley was at the home of her sister, at Upotole, Georgia, about forty miles from Seale. Mrs. Dudley informed a freend yesterday that she was very restless Thursday night. She awoke some time between 12 and 1 o'clock and imagined she heard excited mentalking. Like a panorama the hotel at Seale loomed up before her, and she could see coatters forms hurrying to and fro. Some one told her that they were dancing, but she thought it was very strange that they should be running about the hotel without their coats and betray so much excitement over a dance. The scene came up before her so vividly that sleep was banished from her eyes for the night. She thought that her husband was in danger and she far away and unable to help him. Mrs. Dudley is a Christian lady, and at daybreak she knelt at her bedside and prayed that God might spare her husband and allow her to see him again in life. While at breakfast the telegram came bringing the news of the accident, and confirming her fears.

A Horse Dies of Hydrophobla.

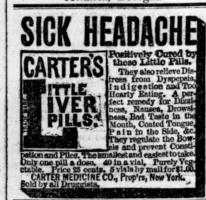

LaGrange Reporter: Since the rabid dog was killed in West Point, several weeks ago, Mr. T. B. Johnson's famfly horse that was slightly bitten on the nose has died with hydrophobia. Also, Mr. J. D. Johnson's fine cow, worth seventy-five dellars, and a cow belonging to Joe Taylor, colored, with the same disease. These were all well defined cases. It was not known that the calves had been bitten. The little dog that was not worth three cents has destroyed over two hundred dollars' worth of property. West Point has had a mad horse and two mad cows. Mr. T. B. Johnson owned the former, which died with unmistakable symptoms of hydrophobia, after having been bitten by a dog that was supposed to have the rabies. One of the cows belopged to Mr. J. D. Johnson, who dispatched her, upon discovering the nature of her malady. The other was the property of a colored man on the East Side. The last named cow was really mad—that word just expresses it. She was securely penned, but would rush at every one who came near. Though she could not get out, all ran from the furious beast when she would start towards them. No one could stand quietly and view her mad capers.

As soon as the law allows the sale of liquor, I expect to reingage in the sale thereof—of those fine old brands Gibson's, and other whiskies it has been frequently told me that if all dealers in liquors sold such fine liquors at 1 did there would be no necessity for prohibition, as my liquors, instead of hurting, would benefit any body who uses them in moderation. I expect to keep up the above reputation for selling Pure Goods—and sell them reasonable. The public are invited to call and see my stock. Terms cash.

NEW YORK, December 2.-The stock market NEW YORK. December 2.—The stock market was duller today than on any day this week, but the tone was strong throughout, with a few stocks decidedly strong. St. Paul was a pivotal stock, being notably strong all day, followed in point of interest by Union Ta ific, which on its good showing made the largest advance of the day. Missouri Pacific also attracted a good deal of attention, and was strong until late when the cause were lost. The also attracted a good deal of attention, and was strong until late, when the gains were lost. The general list was dull, and for most of the day without any special feature. The only weak spot was Wheeling and Lake Erie, which reached its lowest price for a week, owing to rumors affecting the issue of additional stock. The opining was strong at advances over last evening's fund figures of 3/4 to 3/4 per cent generally, while Kansas and Texas and Jersey Central were exceptionally strong, the latter Jersey Central were exceptionally strong, the latter being up 1/2 per cent. Further gains were made throughout the list, Quicksilver stocks and Union throughout the list, Quicksilver stocks and Union Pacific being the most noticeable. Lackawanna also attracted some attention, but after 12 o'clock extreme duliness marked the dealings, and prices stagnated until the last flour, when realizations sagged the list off small fractions, though the close was steady to firm at slightly under the best prices of the day. Sales were 123,000 shares. Almost everything is higher tonight, but the advances are for fractional amounts only, except for Union Pacific, which rose 1½, Louisville and Nashville, Norfolk and Western preferred and St. Paul 1 per cent each.

CHICAGO, December 2.—The hands on the dial that marks the fluctuations in corn on exchange, bobbed about so fast this morning that on-lookers got dizzy. The market opened 1/40½c higher on strong cables; January 48¼ and May 54¼; free realstrong cables; January 4974 and May 9474; free realizing broke May to 53% and the price crept back to 53%, and galloped from there to 54% in sixty seconds. Trade was small on this sharp advance, but the needs of shorts were urgent and the demand for investment account was active. By 1:30 May corn was back to 56c. Wheat was barely steady at the opening, but the strength in corn infused vigor into it, though of a more moderate and diguified form. Trading for the first hour was on a basis of 771/6@781/se for January and 841/s@85 for May. Trade was just decently active. May outs ascended to 33% and broke back to 33%, all within thirty minutes of and broke back to 33¼, all within thirty minutes of the opening.

Provisions opened about as they closed last night, but soon after trading began the bears raided pork down to 25, lard 5 and ribs 162½ cents. One openator offered any part of 20,000 barrels of May pork at 15,20. The crowd helped itself to what it wanted and when the speculator stepped out of the pit the price was run up to 15,32½. January travelled from 14,000,14,65; January lard sold down to 7,40 and January ribs to 7,57½. Before noon wheat had made a gain of nearly 2 cents a bushel over yesterday's last prices. Corn was 1½/61½/c higher; oats had established an advance of 1c and the bull spirit in provisions developed staying powers that are to the much long cotton on the market, which found buyers only at receding prices. The opinion regarding Bradstreets is based upon the compilation of their report from commercial sources, which favored a full crop. Changes in prices have been very rapid, with a declining tend-ney from the opening. Liverpool gained 16 id, which was lost late in the day, the advance stimulating buying at the first call which ran prices up seven points above the close. From this the decline was almost uninterrupted to eight below those of yesterday, with a raily of a few points toward the ena of the session. After the close the feeling was easier with sales at inside prices. It is believed that the enormous long interest has been only slightly liquidated. Orders from outside parties have been mostly to buy, and with a long interest only slightly, if any, decreased the market does not appear in a strong position, so far as the immediate future is concerned. A liquidation of this might pave the way for an advance in cotton on its BALITIMORE, Deember 2—Flour fairly active and firm: Howard street and western superfine $2.37@ $2.75; extra $3.00@$3.60; family $4.75@$4.50; city mills superfine $2.37@$2.60; extra $3.00@$3.62; Rio brands diste future is concerned. A liquidation of this might pave the way for an advance in cotton on its merits, provided short theories are well founded. The final resignation of President Grevy, with the resulting uncertainty of its effect upon Liverpool encouraged the belief in lower prices, but until speculation abandons its constant purchases, the decline must be delayed. ng Regro Desperado Known as "Baby phant'-Did He Have a Hand in the Murder?-It is Thought So. Isaiah Lamar, known to the police and to

He is charged with the murder of young Rightower, and there seems to be very damag-His arrest was a clever piece of detective, work, and was accomplished by Mr. Eugene Couch. It was from the first known that Ware had accomplices in the foul deed, and Mr. Couch addressed himself to the task of reting them out. It was no easy matte for he had very filmsy clues to follow.

Yesterday he secured some very strong evil dence against Ware, and that evidence also tended to criminate Lamar. A number of young men say that about the time youn Hightower was supposed to have been attacked by the negro roughs, or shortly thereafter, they One of them was heard to say:

Late in the atternoon of order Couch arrested is a young negro, seemingly about twenty-three years old, of powerful build. His gigantic proportious were what gave him the appellation of "Baby Elephant." He is known by the police as a very bad character. In many rows he has cut a figure.

When accused of the crime Lamar vehemently denied the charge. He was told that the authorities had received positive proof of his guilt, but this did not in the slightest deree disconcert him or frighten him. He simply said: "Itain't true. I am inno-

They know him of old, and are confident they have caught the right man. Their theory is that Ware and he were the leaders of the gang, and that several other negroes were in the party Mr. Hightower was accosted by them and of them knocked him to ground, and while he was down struck him in the head with a stone. They would probably have finished him then and there but must have been frightened off by the approach of people in the streets. This hypothesis is advanced by Captain Couch and several other officers who have been studying Neither Ware nor Lamar has yet employed counsel, and it is not known whether either of them or both will ask for a preliminary exam-

The grand jury meets on the 6th and doubtless will be called upon to consider an indictment for murder against these two negroes.

THE SCHOOL OF TECHNOLOGY. Progress of the Work-A Prominent Member of the Faculty.

A recent number of the New York Tribune A recent number of the New York Tribune contains the following announcement, which will be of interest to Georgians:

Mr. M. P. Higgins, supe intendent of the Polytechnic institute at Worcester, Mass., is going south on a year's leave of absence to establish a big machine show and foundry for the Georgia Technological commission, was asked concerning Mr. Higgins and his prospective work here. In reply, Mr. finman said:

and his prospective work here. In reply, Mr. Inman said:

"We are glad that Mr. Higgins is coming to Atlanta. He is the head and front of mechanical instruction in the United States. To him, more than to any other man is due the wonderful success of the Polytechnic institute at Worcester, Mass. Mr. Higgins had many applications to go elsewhere, but would only consent to come to Atlanta. Under his organization and method of instruction the commissioners of the school of technology feel that success is assured. The commission is quietly and wisely laying plans in other directions to secure additional members of the faculty, men of the highest reputation and fitness. They feel more hopeful of thorough success than feel more hopeful of thorough success than ever before."

To the question as to pregress in the buildings, Mr. Imman replied:

One of the buildings will be ready on January first, and is already beginning to stand out in magnificent proportions in the western portion of the city. The foundations for another large building has been laid, and the upperstructure will be crecked next spring. "North Avenue will be thoroughly opened from Peachtree to Marietta street, and we have assurances that a street car line will be extended along the whole of the street. The lot on which the school buildings stand has been beautifully graded, and it is well adapted for the purposes intended.

"On the whole the state is to be complimented on the progress being made with the school. It is safe to say that no enterprise undertaken in Atlanta will accomplish more good or be of greater honor to the city."

Mr. Inman is serenely happy at the outlook.

IS HE AN ACCOMPLICE?

Isalah Lamar Arrested on the Charge of Killing Hightower.

BUT HE DENIES THE CHARGE-Young Regro Desperado Known as "Baby Elephant"-Did He Have a Hand in the Murder?-It is Thought So. Isaiah Lamar, known to the police and to the negroes of the third ward as "Baby Elephant," is behind the bars of the stationhouse.

He is charged with the murder of young Hightower, and there seems to be very damag-vidence against him. His arrest was a clever piece of detective work, and was accomplished by Mr. Eugene Couch. It was from the first known that Ware had accomplices in the foul deed, and Mr. Couch addressed himself to the task of ferreting them out. It was no easy matter, for he had very flimsy clues to follow. Yesterday he secured some very strong evidence against Ware, and that evidence also tended to criminate Lamar. A number of young men say that about the time young Hightower was supposed to have been attacked by the negroroughs, or shortly thereafter, they aw several negroes coming down the street.

One of them was heard to say:
"I am sorry that I did not kill him when I

Whether it was Ware or Lamar that made this remark is not certain, but the young men are confident one of them was the man that

Late in the afternoon Officer Couch arrested Lamar and took him to the stationhouse. He is a young negro, seemingly about twenty-three years old, of powerful build. His gigantie proportious were what gave him the appellation of "Baby Elephant." He is known by the police as a very bad character. In many ows he has cut a figure.

When accused of the crime Lamar vehemently denied the charge. He was told that the authorities had received positive proof of his guilt, but this did not in the slightest degree disconcert him or frighten him.

He simply said: "It ain't true. I am inno cent and the good Lord knows it. I don't know nothing about the murder of young Mister Hightower, 'cept what has been told me." The officers, however, take no stock in the

"We are glad that Mr. Higgins is coming to Atlanta. He is the head and front of mechanical instruction in the United States. To the question as to progress in the buildings, Mr. Inman replied:

One of the buildings will be ready on January first, and is already beginning to stand out in magnificent proportions in the western portion of the city. The foundations for another large building has been laid, and the superstructure will be crected next spring. "North Avenue will be thoroughly opened from Peachtree to Marietta street, and we have assurances that a street car line will be extended along the whole of the street. The lot on which the school buildings stand has been beautifully graded, and it is well adapted for the purposes intended.

Patti Rosa in Zip Last Night-Coming

Attractions.

Charming little Patti Rosa was at DeGive's last night, and she had that thumb with her.
Of course she charmed everybody. Fred Marsden's "Zip" was the play, and it gave the little lady ample opportunity to sing and dance and kick her-self right into the good graces of her audience. She is a charming little actress, fall of grace an I just bubbling over with a numl spirits. It is no wonder that she captivates her audiences. He sho wonder that she captivates her audiences. Her voice is not strong, but she sings with a naivete which covers any possible defects; her dancing couldn't be improved upon; and her acting throughout is—well, it's latit Rosa. Her merry presence culivens the en-tire play.

It's Patit Rosa. Her merry presence curivens the en-tire play.

The support is, as a whole, only fair. Mr. Fran-coeur as the Italian Gallett, does very good work.

McGrath is fair as Father Phelps, and Sir William Ekkon. Miss Shields was laboring under great dis-advantages in the shape of a cold and hoarsenes, and it is not fair to judge her work by last night's performance. Miss Jacobs is good as Mrs. Ekkon. The rest of the support is only fair, but as Path Rosa is the whole performance, it is well worth sec-ing.

CHO.

Of the performance of Bartley Campbell's great work, Cho, the Brooklyn Time says: "The magnificent spectacular production of "Cho" is drawing very large audiences at F. F. Proctor's theater, and the general verdict is that it is one of the finest stage representations of the kind now being offered for the approval of the public. Although the play depends in a large measure upon its marvelous scene effects, its rich and elegant costumes and its graceful and beautiful dancers, it possesses considerable literary merit, and there are lofty passages far above the language employed in the average spectacular drama. The mounting of the play, knoweer, is superb, and the series of brilliant pictures, rich with the coloring of Venetian and Fiorentiae like presented; is something to be remembered even by veteran theater-goors. The "Earthquake Soxee" following "The Curse of Fablan" is thrilling to a high degree, and is witnessed by the audience with almost breathless interest."

THE CHAMPION WRESTLER.

Muhler, the Champion Wrestler of the World, in Atlanta.

World, in Atlanta.

A man of superb figure and herculean proportions walked into The Constitution office late last night. He had just came from Augusta. He was Muhler, the greatest wrestler in the world.

He has come to Atlanta to give several exhibitions if he can induce anybody to measure strength and dexterity with him. He challenges the world. His agent authorizes the statement that he will give $100 to any man in Atlanta who will throw Muhler one time in the course of an hour.

Atlanta who will throw Muhler one time in the course of an hour.

There are several excellent amateur wrest-lers in the city, some of whom, it is hoped, will consent to meet the Greek in a friendly contest. He contemplates giving his first exhibition in about a week, and will announce the details in a few days.

He made a big sensation in Augusta, and the Evening News thus speaks of his performance:

the Evening News thus speaks of his performance:

The wrestling match came off at Market hall last night, but not the one arranged between Muhler, the Greek, and Captain E. R. Smith. The captain d.d not show up on time, and it was reported that he held a doctor's certificate that he was too unwell. The crowd was badly disappointed, and as many left, they paid their compliments to the captain in language far more expressive than polite. The captain gave no warning until about time for the contest, Muhler says, and then it was scattered in such a way as to cause people to go away or not come to the hall. It was bad, very bad, and the Greek and his manager, Mr. Hopper, are in righteous indignation. Muhler says he came here to have a fair, scare contest, and he has certainly conqueted himself in a proper way and has won host of admirers. He has made friends with the town, and everybody champions him. The boys are now trying to make a match between him and a Cotumbla country giant, who has the arm of a blacksmith and the cunning of a fex. If they match can be arranged, Muhler will stay over and give Augusta the finest exhibition of wrestling ever seen in the south. His figure was universally admired and the Greek is the lion of the town.

When it became known that Smith would not universally admired and the Greek is the lion of the town.

When it became known that Smith would not come to time, Mr. Hopper and some Augusta gentlemen persuaded Mr. F. S. Rughes, a placky and manly amateur, to meet Muhler. Hughes had already challenged the Greek, and he agreed to the plan, although without preparation. The contestants, after a little delay, were arrayed and in the ring, and considering his lack of skill and his less weight Hughes put up a splendid wrestle. Muhler says he is every inch a man, and praises him very highly. He says that Hughes gave him a fair and pretip hard time of it, especially in the third round. The professional was, of course, easily victorious, and after three fails, Hughes decled not to come up for the fourth round. The contest was interesting although imprompts, and everybody would like to see the supurb and mighty Muhler well matched in a Greco-Roman wrestling match.

DEATH OF EDWIN BATES.

and Charleston is no More.

The officers, however, take no stock in the prisoner's asservations of innocence. They know him of old, and are confident they have caught the right man. Their theory is that Ware and he were the leaders of the gang, and that several other negroes were in the party. Mr. Hightower was accosted by them and one of them knocked him to the ground, and while he was down struck him in the head with a stone. They would probably have finished him then and there but must have been frightened off by the approach of people in the streets. This hypothesis is advanced by Captain Couch and several other officers who have been studying the case.

Neither Ware nor Lamar has yet employed counsel, and it is not known whether either of them or both will ask for a preliminary examination.

prohibition law. The defendant is a handsome young man of more than ordinary intelligence. His father sat near him during the trial. The indictment charges him with selling spirituous liquors near the Piedmont park during the exposition. This is the young man who was shot at by one of the policemen. He pleaded "not guilty" to the indictment. He was defended by Colonel Rube Arnold and Rube Arnold, Jr., and Solicitor Howelf Glenn conducted the prosecution. Several witnesses on both sides were examined. The defendant's witnesses attempted to impeach the credibility of the detectives, and Colonel Arnold handled the state's witnesses without gloves. Solicitor Glenn insisted that the state had made out its case. His argument was one of the strongest heard in the courthouse in a long time. Judge Van Epps charged the jury at considerable length and with his accustomed perspicuity. At five o'clock the jury retired. After staying linearly an hour the jury came back for additional instructions, which the court gave. Then the jury was told to seal the verdict should one be agreed upon.

The suprenior court, Judge Marshall J. Clarke presiding, was engaged in the trial of two civil cases vesterday. The first was the case of Bruce & Morgan, the architects, vs. Mrs. F. A. Kirby. The plaintiffs sued for $2.37.3 for work in the advertising line done by the plaintiff for Mr. Taylor. The plaintiff is represented by Messrs. Lowry, Lowry & Porter and Walter Taylor to Messrs. Any person, young or old, who is troubled with the letters becoming indistinct, and whose eyes blurafter continued reading, should seek aid from glasses: Many young people in Atlanta today are calloying a 'newly cut' magazine with glasses properly adjusted to their eyes, who not long since were obliged to forego that pleasure. Mayor Cooper, the Water Commissioners an Several Aldermen Visit the Waterworks.

Mayor Cooper, the Water Commissioners and Several Aldermen Visit the Waterworks.

At 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning, three carriages left Cox's livery stable. In these vehicles were the members of the water commission, Mr. William W. Richards, superintendent of the Atlanta waterworks; Mr. C. H. Kendrick, of the Newark Filtering company; several members of the general council, Mayor Cooper and a representative of The Constitution. The party rode direct to the waterworks, going out Crew street, Capitol avenue, and via Brownsville. The ride was a pleasant one, in spite of the crisp, nipping air.

The object of the crisp, nipping air.

The object of the visit was to inspect the process of filtering the water furnished the city. The visitors were first shown through the engine room and permitted to examine the two monster engines, which can pump over six million gallons of water to Atlanta in twenty-four hours. Only one of these engines was at work. It is a wonderful piece of mechanism, and does perfect work.

The visitors next went into the building in which the filters are placed. Here the superintendent showed them many novel and interesting sights. The large tanks were about one-sixth full of muddy water, containing many impurities. The pumps were put to work and the various stages of purification were shown the visitors. The work of cleaning the filters was an interesting process. Some exceedingly ingenious contrivances were explained and practical tests were given. Everyone could easily see the marvelous transformation the fluid underwent in a short while. At first the water which came from the pond was dense and muddy. It was forced into the large filters and driven through the strata of white sand and pulverized coke. When it was ejected through these it became perfectly pure and of crystalline transparency. It tasted as sweet and fresh as the best spring water. The visitors were all delighted with the tests and came away concurring in the belief that Atlanta is blessed with as pure water as any other city i as any other city in the south.

It was clearly demonstrated to the satisfaction of all the officials present that the filters can give the city an abundant supply of pure water.

In returning to the city, the party came by way of the glass works and saw a large quantity of globes and lamp chimneys which had just been turned out.

An official report of the test made a few days ago will probably be submitted to the city council at its next meeting.

The people are happy because they can buy Salvation Oil for twenty-five cents. The only sure method to cure an obstinate cough—use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. 25 cts. Election in West End.

The election for mayor and five councilmen for West End occurs today from 7 a. m. to 2 p. m. The mayor and two councilmen will hold office for two years and three councilmen for one year, two years and three councilmen for one year, beginning in January.

A ticket was nominated at a meeting of the citizens last Tuesday night, but rumors are thick of dissatisfaction as to some of the candidates selected, and it is predicted there will be considerable scratching. Indeed, it is asserted that certain partices will bring out a new ticket on the sly. Whether these things are so is a question, but it behooves the citizens of West End to be on the alert and see to it that good, trustworthy men are put in control of the town's affairs.

It has been suggested that every lover of West End meet at the polls early this morning and consult as to the best men to elect in case any effort is made to put men in office the people do not want.

West End is growing nicely and her people should keep united and push vigorously for increasing prosperity.

M. M. Welch Withdraws.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: At the earnest solicitation of friends I consented to the use of my name as a candidate for councilman from the second ward. I did not seek the announcement, nor desire the office, but from a sense of loyalty to the friendship of those whose wishes I could not consistently disregard, I reluctantly gave my consent.

sistently disregard, I reluciantly gave my consent. Since the announcement of my name, the friends of Mr. A. P. Bostick have announced him as a candidate for the same effice. Upon this action I have secured the consent of my friends to withdraw my name from the race, which I am glad to have the privilege of doing.

In thus retiring I deem it a matter of justice to the many citizens who have, irrespective of their position on the prohibition issue, kindly indicated their confidence, and voluntarily pledged their support, to state that I am confident that I will find in the person of Mr. Bostick, if elected, a representative capable, conscientious, thoroughly alive to the best interests of Atlanta, and worthy in every respect.

As a friend of the working man, having come from the anvil myself, and never gotten so far from it that I do not love the inspiration of its music, it affords me pleasure to testify to Mr. Bostick's fidelity to every trust, from the work bench to the office. I expect to vote for him in perfect confidence.
